

The Great West Aussie Pie Hunt

After exhausting what feels like every bakery in Western Australia in search of the perfect pie, except maybe the Augusta Bakery, I was starting to lose hope.

So many promising golden crusts. So many disappointing fillings. So much sadness.

Then it hit me — the solution was right there in our own kitchen — Kay.

Turns out the secret to a great pie isn't finding the right bakery. It's marrying an incredible cooking teacher who decides to take matters into her own hands.

1.5kg of rump steak, a frankly irresponsible amount of streaky bacon, and a blend of herbs and spices so secret even I'm not allowed to know what's in them (and no, Colonel, nothing remotely like yours).

---

The result? Absolute perfection. Flaky. Rich. Deeply, deeply satisfying. The mix yielded 7 overfilled great pies.

So to every bakery in WA — no hard feelings. You never stood a chance. ?

Lesson learned: stop searching. Marry better. ?
